• You finished your undergraduate degree with very good grades
• You found a supervisor and a laboratory to work
• Now, you are a graduate student
• You belong to the Faculty of Graduate Studies, AND to the Faculty of Science, Department of Microbiology

• Your supervisor is your main source of information, and advice on your program of study

• Your advisory committee is also a source of information and advice

• Your Associate Head (Graduate Studies) can overview your program, approve changes, and give general advice if necessary

• The Head of the Department Deb Court can give advice as well.
Visit the Graduate Page of the Department of Microbiology